made change 3-28

The American Society of Professional Engineers should be the National Society of Professional Engineers (NSPE).

I'm not sure what the criteria is for this list, but the American Society of Mechanical Engineers will from time to time get involved in HVAC issues. Also, are there any architectural professional groups that we should list, from an HVAC design viewpoint? I have an architect in my department.

For starters, some missing groups are CECCM and it's subcommittees, various CORESTA individual roles and committees, ARTIST in Asia, the new group in France that Jacques goes to, etc.

Valerie - you left off the SRRC, who would potentially know about other memberships, so I copied them.

Attached is a compiled workbook of third party information. Please let me know if you have any additions, changes or revisions.

Please note that there a three separate spreadsheets contained in the file.

Thanks,
Valerie
